Report on
Awareness/workshop programme for orchid conservation

Date: 13.11.2021

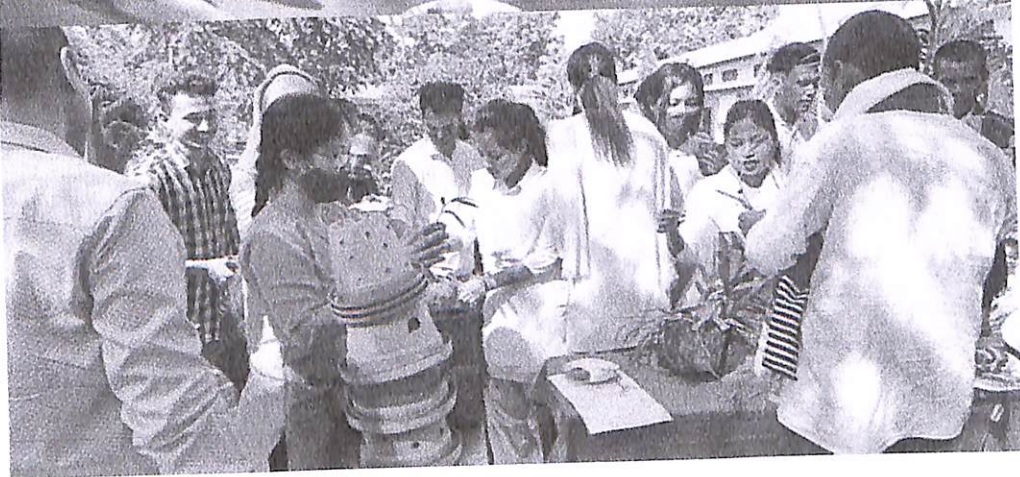

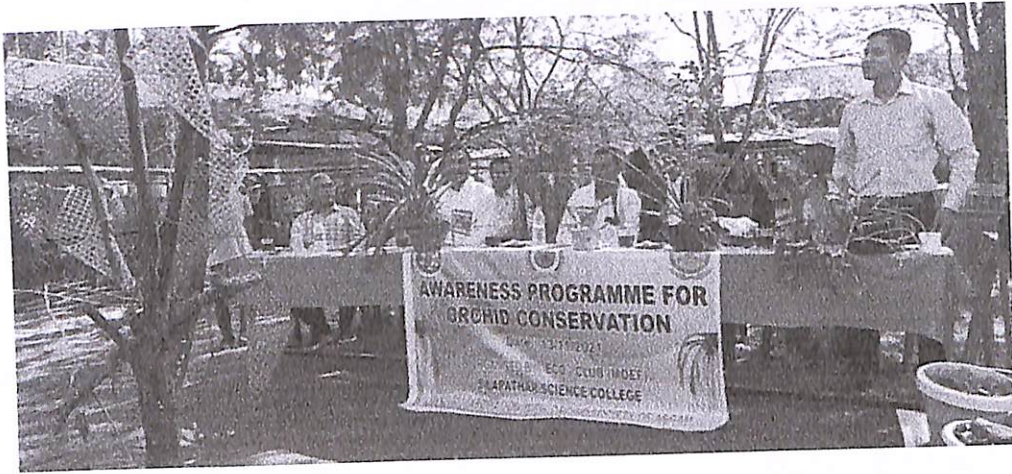

Place: Silapathar Science College Campus, Silapathar

Organized by: Eco Club (Silapathar Science College) & supported by Orchid Society of Assam.

A day long program was organized in aiming to increase of conservation awareness of native orchids, habitats and host trees of orchids. In this workshop, about 100 students of B.Sc & M.Sc. Botany along with 15 faculties of the Silapathar Science College were attended. Experience resource persons on orchid cultivation and conservation have been invited to success the day long programme. Resource person Mr. Tankeswar Doli, Mr. Gandheswar Bora and Mr. Deep Kumar Doley trained to students for orchid growing and propagation techniques. This programme created awareness among the students to save the beautiful orchids as well as their host trees and habitat. The participants were trained well to taking care of hybrid orchids in different type of media and their commercial benefits. The students and other participants of workshop were planted about 20 saplings of orchids in trees and orchidarium of the college campus. Dr. Ranjit Saikia , Principal, Silapathar Science College, delivered valuable speech on orchids of the Assam and aboard.

The whole programme was coordinated by Dr. Jitu Gogoi, Teacher In-Charge of Eco-club, Silapathar Science College and whole programme assisted by state level NGO Orchid Society of Assam. Members of the orchid society of Assam supported the programme and made it successful.
